3 Do you feel safe crossing the El Monte Corridor?

4 Have you ever avoided crossing the El Monte Corridor due to safety concerns?

- Yes No If yes, can you explain why: _____

5 Is there anything else you would like to add regarding your experience on the El Monte Corridor?

At night, the lighting along this corridor is at automotive scale, which is much much higher above the roadway than necessary to illuminate pedestrians. Lighting at the pedestrian scale (much closer to the sidewalk and roadway) should be added at intersections of concern for peds.

3 Do you feel safe crossing the El Monte Corridor?

- Yes No If no, can you explain why: It is a major traffic corridor, similar to El Camino. I don't believe that this should be viewed as corridor for pedestrian crossing in general

4 Have you ever avoided crossing the El Monte Corridor due to safety concerns?

- Yes No If yes, can you explain why: It is a major roadway, as such I also do not expect that I should have the right to cross El Monte at any intersection.

5 Is there anything else you would like to add regarding your experience on the El Monte Corridor?

Again as it is a major corridor, I think for safety sake, the crossing of El Monte from one side to the other should be limited, not encouraged. It would also be helpful for neighborhoods to place traffic blocking on the intersections that butt into El Camino, such as at Pilgrim Avenue

2 What is your primary travel mode? Please check the mode you use most often.

- Walking Cycling Car
- Transit Other: _____

3 Do you feel safe crossing the El Monte Corridor?

- Yes No If no, can you explain why: _____
- Multiple lanes make the crossing hard, especially by bike or walking
- Turning left from Lloyd at ⑧ onto Springer is hard, due to multiple lanes and the stop sign where cars strongly accelerate

4 Have you ever avoided crossing the El Monte Corridor due to safety concerns?

- Yes No If yes, can you explain why: _____

5 Is there anything else you would like to add regarding your experience on the El Monte Corridor?

It feels that the multiple lanes in each direction make it a lot harder to cross. This is for example turning left from El Monte to Lloyd at ⑧, which I nearly ever do in rolling traffic (always wait for a gap, and there's no real x-ing). The bike lane on the eastern side is narrow.

- Walking (would do more if less traffic or safer conditions) Cycling Car
- Transit Other: _____

3 Do you feel safe crossing the El Monte Corridor?

- Yes No If no, can you explain why: wide street making crossing take longer; 35 mph speed limit; long stretch without crosswalks; congestion near shopping center; visual clutter near shopping ctr/El Camino

4 Have you ever avoided crossing the El Monte Corridor due to safety concerns?

- Yes No If yes, can you explain why: too much traffic, wide street, only walk on 'home' side of El Monte

5 Is there anything else you would like to add regarding your experience on the El Monte Corridor?

intersection #4
appreciate addition of overhead blinking crosswalk signs by shopping center, has helped a lot.

intersection #1
- making a left turn from Escuela onto El Camino needs left turn signal - many cars coming out of parking lot by Walgreens & because they are backed up parallel to El Camino until light changes, its challenging to know which of these cars are turning or which are going straight across onto Escuela
